information

St. Annes on Sea offers a gentler and more peaceful location than its larger neighbour, Blackpool. There is no better example of a traditional seaside town than St. Annes on Sea, with its Victorian Porritt buildings and historic pier, and bandstand. There is a golden beach with its rolling sand dunes and a well established main promenade near the central pier, where you may walk amongst the ornamental gardens overlooking the sea. The old Victorian pier lies centrally on the beach and has been totally renovated in recent years back to its former elegance. Close to the promenade is the famous Lytham Green and Windmill.
